Dear Ms. Smyth & pupils

Firstly, a huge congratulations to you all for doing an excellent job in choosing and researching your local hero and then taking part in the recording for Cruinniú na nOg a national day of creativity for children across Ireland.

You all did a wonderful job with very little time to prepare to welcome your local hero a talented past pupil Noel Carberry to your school. I was very impressed by the video which is available on Longford libraries youtube and Creative Ireland Longford facebook and it will remain there for the whole world to see. It has already been viewed, shared and liked by many people not just from the parish but from across the County and around the world. You have done your school and your parish proud and I want to thank each and every one of you and your teachers for all your hard work putting it all together at such short notice. As a small gesture for all the work successfully carried out, I am arranging a payment of €300 to go into the school fund for the benefit of you all.

Kind regards

Mary Carleton Reynolds,
Longford Creative Ireland Coordinator
